

Graduate and Exchange Opportunities at Osgoode Hall Law School

Marilyn Pilkington

Associate Professor and former Dean, Osgoode Hall Law School of York University

Monday, 14 November 2011, 2:00 - 3:00 pm

Room 726, 7/F Knowles Building

The University of Hong Kong

Osgoode Hall's Graduate program is the oldest and largest graduate legal program in Canada, and offers the widest array of graduate legal studies of any law school in the country. In addition, it has an internationally rich and diverse student body of approximately 3200 international and exchange students representing over 130 countries. In this seminar, former Dean Marilyn Pilkington will introduce prospective students to the academic graduate programmes on offer and to the HKU/Osgoode Exchange Programme. She will explain the advantages of choosing Osgoode as the place where they can complete or contribute to their legal education. The seminar will conclude with a question and answer session, where attendees will have the opportunity to ask practical questions on studies at Osgoode.

Marilyn L. Pilkington, BA Hon (Alberta), LLB (Toronto), Hon LLD (Law Society of Upper Canada), is a member of faculty and a former Dean of Osgoode Hall Law School. She teaches and writes primarily in the fields of Evidence, Constitutional Law, and Constitutional Litigation. She is also co-author of a book on Canadian corporate law reform and co-author of a study on enforcement of securities law in Canada. She is a former elected Bencher of the Law Society of Upper Canada, and has participated in law reform projects, as counsel or advisor to governments, public bodies and law firms, and as a member of government commissions, advisory bodies, public policy institutes, and tribunals dealing with human rights (Canada and Ontario), international trade (NAFTA), and professional discipline.
